Fuller Seminary is a member of the Evangelical Teacher Training Association so that students are eligible to qualify for their Teachers Certificate. The Association has an international program in lay leadership training in the Bible Institute/College tradition. This program thus involves a curriculum of basic courses in Bible, Doctrine, and Teaching that enables a local church or group of churches to establish an on-going standardized Bible school. The certificate qualifies one to set up and teach in such a school. To obtain the certificate a person must give assent to an evangelical statement of faith and take certain courses at Fuller. For further information see the materials on Professor Larson's bulletin board or speak with him personally.
